"The write stuff. Children can create a memoir of camp activities and events with the Camp Journal by Peter Pauper Press. This record keeper, photo album, and interactive book has multiple pages for recording camp details, as well as photo and autograph pages, jokes, games, fun factoids, superlative charts for rating everything from counselors to food, and an address section for keeping in touch with new friends. The journal also includes a funky pen and eight postcards for sharing camp experiences with others." --Delaware Online

Cute book and may be okay for some. In my opinion, it is not age appropriate for elementary or middle schoolers. Many suggestive influences for crushes, who's hot, and who's not.

My 12 year old daughter absolutely loved having this at camp! She was able to capture so many of her memories and experiences in a fun creative way. It asked you questions throughout such as what is the color of your cabin, who is your camp counselor and list all the things you've done today. There was an area where you could list what your schedule was for the day. It also has the days sectioned where you can write about what you did on Day one, Day two and so on! It contains postcards so you can write to your friends and family while away. One of her favorite sections was the joke area where it shares a few jokes to tell to your friends, or you can write jokes you heard. We highly recommend this for any 8 year old and up girl going to camp!

I bought this as a surprise for my daughter who was going to her first sleep away church camp this summer. She was so excited when I gave it to her, and started jumping up and down and squealing. Lots of ideas for her to get to know other girls at camp, and places for her to doodle and journal. She thanked me again when she got home.

I bought this for my son who is going away to a 30-day summer camp for the first time. It looked good on the outside (I thought the colors and design were pretty much gender neutral) and the description sounded good--just what I was looking for. It arrived promptly, good quality, nice colors. HOWEVER, there are lots of flowers and butterflies and decidedly NOT boy-type stuff on the inner pages. My son thinks he may be able to deal with it but just wanted to let others know so it isn't a surprise to them as it was to us. It's not over-the-top girly but it's not exactly gender-neutral on the inside.

These are the BEST camp journals ever. The pages are creatively designed and walk you through the campJournaling process in a fun and painless way. Love this find.

It was my daughters first time at camp and I wanted her to be able to record her experience. She loved this journal and wrote in it everyday. She also used the postcards and mailed them to us from camp. The new friends she met also enjoyed the journal because of some of the activities that were in it.

Gave this to an 11 year old girl about to go to overnight camp for the first time. She immediately took it to her room, looked through it and filled in her info. She was very excited.

My daughter loved this as a surprise gift to have in her bag for camp. It has areas for journaling, camp friends to write and it comes with postcards to mail home.
