We spent two months in Grenada, St Vincent, and the Grenadines on our sailboat in the winter of 2008. We had seven guide books for this area -- Rum & Reggae was our favorite. For exploring, hiking, snorkeling, eating: this book consistently recommended places and activities that were more interesting and less touristy. Sure, we used the others books too, but we used this one more. Note that we were living on our sailboat and did not use their hotel recommendations. We've since bought the Rum & Reggae books for the rest of the areas that we plan to explore next winter.

We bought this and 2 others for our trip to Grenada. We put them on our kindle and referred to all of them equally. We were only interested in the local history and areas of interest for day trips, as we already had booked lodging and are willing to eat anywhere.

A. Brown, your review is ridiculously harsh over such simple things, especially because you don't seem to be reading the book properly. First, the book very clearly explains (on Page 13 in the introduction) that Grenada is a separate country from St. Vincent and the Grenadines! Second, the rum punch recipe does not profess to be the exact St. Vincent & the Grenadines recipe. It is the Rum & Reggae recipe. It's just a fun little tidbit. Please consider being a bit more open minded and accurate before posting such negativity. This is a fun and informative guide -- perfect for setting the tone for a trip to the Grenadines.

Used this book for a recent great trip to St. Vincent and the Grenadines. While the book is a little less detailed than the bigger guide books as well as a little biased against the high end resort options, the frank opinions and reviews were right on the mark. Easier to carry around than the bigger guidebooks and information was very accurate. Inexpensive useful guide to this wonderful area of the Caribbean!

It's St. Vincent and the Grenadines which is not part of Grenada. The Grenadines is part of St. Vincent (SVG). The rum punch recipe is not how they make rum punch in St. Vincent and the Grenadines, lime juice and rum-no that's not right. It should be Rum and Soca. Get it correct!! SVG is one of the best kept secret. Great place to visit.
