Customer Reviews

While their book is based on practice knowledge, rather than research, the information it provides may be particularly useful for those professionals who have not had hands on experience with people at the last stages of dying...It is a resource that ought not to be left on the bookshelf, but referred to time and again by those who care for people facing the final stage of life that we will ultimately experience. -Death Studies 2005 vol. 29(4)

"This book brings together much of the experience of workers. . .[in the field of death and dying] all facing the demands on mind and heart in a spirit of openness"--From the Foreword by Dame Cicely Saunders
This is a book rich in expertise, as a good source of information and a valuable contribution to the field, and I would recommend it to readers of Bereavement Care."--Frances Kraus, Hospice Social Worker and Project Leader
