FAKE NEWS

How Propaganda Influenced the 2016 Election,
A Historical Comparison to 1930's Germany

Kelly Carey
Edited by Kimberly Miller

Synopsis

Fake News: How Propaganda Influenced the 2016 Election, A Historical Comparison to 1930's Germany is a brief comparison of propaganda tactics from Hitler's Third Reich to the right wing news machine that drove information in the 2016 election. Kelly Carey's expert comparison includes broken political parties, power vacuums and decades of false news, leading to unlikely and dangerous leaders in Adolf Hitler and Donald Trump. The reader will be introduced to the history and methods of Nazi propaganda and the mind of Josef Goebbels, the propaganda minister. Carey explains the similar tactics used by Steven Bannon and right wing media corporations for two decades and how they have mimicked Hitler's fake news machine. The uniformity is shocking and telling. The direct quotes by both leaders and their emotional inadequacies are alarming at best and guide the reader through the tangle of facts and fiction, as directed and disseminated by each leader. Carey explores why propaganda works to fool people into believing harmful agendas. The lies of the right have catapulted America to the brink of history in the same manner propaganda allowed the Third Reich to rise and change the world forever.

Great ideas. Needed some proofreading.

I was looking for an overview of propaganda and fake news and how it developed from the 1940's till today. Instead, this is really nothing more than a comparison of Nazi propaganda and the Trump campaign. It does not seem to offer any insight or conclusions outside of saying Trump is as bad as the WWII era Germans. Overall I felt like it was just the author's chance to vent some of his frustration and anger over the election of Trump and how propaganda played a role in that process. Overall the book was ok, but if you are looking for something a bit more substantial on the topic, then I would recommend skipping this.

Terrible.

Very clever, well written.
